

Our People

Sexual Harassment is not harmless or funny.

It can profoundly affect its victims and those who observe it.

A few of the most common occurrences include:

- Suggestive remarks or sexually offensive jokes, in person or over e-mail
- Remarks about someone's body, clothing or sexual activity that are sexually demeaning
- Insulting or suggestive looks, sounds or gestures (e.g., leering, catcalls)

You DESERVE a work environment free from sexual harassment.

What you can do:

- Speak up.
- Talk to your supervisor.
- Contact one of the sponsoring organizations.

Sponsored by:

Office of the President
Department of Human Resources
Women's Center
AFSCME (NP-3)
UConn Police Department

CEUI (NP-2)
UCPEA
Office of Diversity & Equity
Office of Audit, Compliance & Ethics

University of Connecticut